WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16,-(Spe cial.)-In religious faith Senator Vance was a Presbyterian-of the old school, as he often expressed it. The selection of Rev. Moses D. Hoge, of Richmond, to conduct the funeral ceremonies in the Senate chamber was appropriate, for, in addition to his preminence in the Presbyterian church, there was a close friendship between Dr. Hoge and Senator Vance. TRIP TO EUROPE.

In 1888 Senator and Mrs. Vance made an extensive European trip. They arrived at Queenstown early in May, and after spending six or eight weeks in Ireland, Scotland, and England, they travelled leisurely on the Continent until the following December, when they returned to Washington, and the Senator resumed his duties here. The trip and change of scene seemed to have been of great benefit to the Senator, for during the two years succeeding his return home he appeared to be in more robust health. He was cheerful, and did a great deal of hard work. Last spring, however, he began to break down again, and was com-For more than eight months previous to its death he had repeated attacks of ill-ness, resulting in his spending most of the winter in Florida. When he returned to Washington about the first of April the fatigue of the trip was such that he felt it keenly, and he was unable to leave his residence or to give very much if any attention to his senatorial duties.

His friends who called to see him during the past two weeks, while not prepared to believe that his death would occur so soon seemed to realize that he would never gain be able to actively engage in th Scante proceedings unless a remarkable change in his condition should take place. SENATOR VANCE'S SUCCESSOR. Jarvis, Avery, Henderson, and Alexander Mentioned as Possibilities.

Congressman Henderson.
Congressman Alexander.
There is considerable quiet gossip over the matter, but, of course no steps have

It is the prevailing impression among North Carolinians in Washington that Governor Carr's per-sonal leaning is toward ex-Governor Jar-vis, but that he will give the matter mature consideration

He said:

"I do not believe that the Brazilian Admiral was anxious that our fleet should ever enter the harbor of Rio Janeiro, for the reason that in my opinion he was in sympathy with Da Gama.

"I have good grounds for entertaining this belief. They sunk two German torpedo-boats, and I have every reason to believe that they attempted to sink the Nictheroy. Captain Baker at once called the American officers to the bridge, and we went there armed with Colt's revolvers ready to stand by our captain. As soon as we appeared on the bridge the Brazilian Admiral laid down his sword and submitted to Captain Baker.
